glatzer Carnuntum

» Hand in hand «

In 1987 we first opened the gates to our then 5.4 hectares large vineyard in Carnuntum, the famous wine-growing region east of Vienna, following in the footsteps of the ancient Romans who prized its perfect climate for wine production. Through the years our ambitions grew proportionally to our vines. So much so that nowadays 250.000 bottles of Glatzer wine annually set out on journeys around the globe.

» Black and white «

A deeply rooted love for our craft goes into each and every bottle of wine. 55 hectares of fertile soil yield red and white grape varieties with characteristics shaped by nature and technology alike. By technology we don't mean artificial gadgets but state-of-the-art quality control that ensures speedy processing and hygiene. The best premise for high-quality, complex and intensely flavored wines.

» Down to earth «

Carnuntum is a historical site for wine-growing. Almost two thousand years ago the ancient Romans valued Göttlesbrunn and its surroundings for its pannonic microclimate and its soil rich in loess. In fact the Roman elite loved the rich and tasteful wines so much that the Italian wine monopoly was lifted by imperial decree so that the whole empire could get a taste of the carnuntian wines.

» Our road to success «

We – and with us our wines – have come a long way. A tradition that we like to uphold with passion and commitment. But in spite (or maybe because) of our wines' reputation we like to stay down to earth. And always a step ahead.
